

marie claire LOVES GLAMPING

Planning an escape this summer? Jervis Bay's Paperbark Camp offers an eco-friendly option that doesn't involve pitching a tent. Two and a half hours south of Sydney, Paperbark's lavish, safari-style tents on stilts define glamping (or glamorous camping). Whether you want to feast on local produce at the treetop dining room, kayak on the creek or commune with the kangaroos, Paperbark offers a luxurious green getaway. And with environmental credentials covering everything from solar-powered lighting to rainwater collection, you can do it all guilt-free. From $305 per night. Visit www.paperbarkcamp.com.au.

fashion with heart

SCENTS OF DUTY

For every virtual tree planted on Elizabeth Arden's website www.maketheworldaprettierplace.com - created to launch its Pretty fragrance - the iconic cosmetics company will plant a tree in the real world through forest replanting organisation Trees for the Future.

GREAT LENGTHS

Unico haircare products are not only packed with natural ingredients like sesame oil, cocoa butter and essential oils lemon and lavender, but they're also cruelty-free and produced locally, which means a reduced carbon footprint. Plus, you'll get 10 per cent off refills if you recycle used bottles at one of Unico's Melbourne salons. Visit www.unicoformulations.com.au.

SMALL STEPS

Discover easy and effective ways to make a big difference to the world around you

ECO TIP: PUMP UP YOUR TYRES - YOU WON'T JUST GET MORE MILEAGE WHEN THEY'RE FULLY INFLATED, BUT YOU COULD ALSO SAVE UP TO 136KG OF CARBON DIOXIDE FOR EVERY 16,000KM YOU DRIVE.*

BOOK IT IN

Make room on your reading list for Ox-Tales, $12.99 each, collections of original short stories themed on the elements by authors including Vikram Seth, Sebastian Faulks and Lionel Shriver. They've put pen to paper for Oxfam to highlight the charity's work in agriculture, water, conflict aid and climate change. Visit www.allenandunwin.com.

IT'S A WRAP

They're as soft as cashmere, but these llama-wool wraps, scarves and throws from Cascada are lighter, stronger, warmer and less likely to pill. Made from a special blend of feather-fine llama fibre, and produced sustainably using recycled water and hydropower, they're made in Bolivia, where Cascada supports local industry. Visit www.cascada.com.au.

PHOTOGRAPHED BY ANTHONY ADAMSON; GETTY IMAGES; TEXT BY NAOMI JAUL. *WWW.NATURE.ORG